SPOKANE COUNTY MEDICAL EXAMINER'S OFFICE
Statement of Policy, Procedure and Practice

Policy Title: RELEASE OF INFORMATION TO THE PRESS, MEDIA, PUBLIC

Policy:

Washington State law defines which individuals and agencies are entitled to autopsy reports, records, and information generated by the Medical Examiner's Office.

Because the cause and manner of death are recorded on the death certificate they are considered public record and as such can be released to individuals, news media, and agencies.

Procedures and Practices:

The following are guidelines for making information available to the press/media and the public:

All media should be directed to send their request and/or inquiries to medexam@spokanecounty.org.

If the media contacts an investigator after hours, weekends or holidays, via the phone line, the media should be advised that the line they are calling is for death investigation or grieving family members and all media should send their inquiries to medexam@spokanecounty.org.

Contact with news media is carefully considered.

1. Per State law, in the case of unidentified remains, the media and general public can be provided with detailed description and case information in order to facilitate identification.

2. In general, the cause and manner of death is public record and can be released to the media and any other agencies. However, State law allows that the Medical Examiner can withhold any information, which directly or indirectly identifies the decedent until next-of-kin has been notified, or a 48-hour notification period has elapsed. After the decedent has been identified and next-of-kin has been notified, the following information may be provided as per the procedure below:

   • The name and age (and date of birth, if known with certainty) of the deceased and the date that the person was found, or pronounced, dead.

   • The location or area of Spokane County or public institution where the deceased was found dead (i.e. Spokane River, 1500 block of Sprague, etc.)

   • The city and state or area of residence of the deceased (i.e. Spokane Valley, Eastern Washington, Coeur d'Alene, etc.)
3. If a death certificate temporarily lists “pending” as cause and/or manner of death, that information can be released without providing case-specific information (indicate that the case is still under investigation).

4. When a death or injury leading directly to death occurs in a custodial context (police custody, jail, state hospital, etc), the fact that a death occurred at-or-related-to a specific institution or agency may be released to the press/media or the public. The name of the institution or agency may be released at any time after the death is confirmed and has been reported officially to the Medical Examiner's Office.

5. General information about deaths that are currently under investigation, or that have been officially reported to the Medical Examiner’s Office, may be made available at anytime (i.e. “We are looking into an apparent natural death in West Spokane”; “A death has been reported to us as a probable drowning occurring near Upriver Park”; “A traffic-related death has been reported to us, it occurred on I-90 near Cheney” etc.)

6. Neither the autopsy report nor the contents thereof will be released to the media by any member of the Medical Examiner's Office. Releasing confidential information from the autopsy report is considered grounds for dismissal. The toxicology report is considered part of the autopsy report. Two exceptions to the strict considerations revolving around contact with the media occur, one of which occurs when a decedent is not identified. In such cases, State law allows release of some information at the discretion of the Medical Examiner for distribution to the media and general public in order to aid in identifying a deceased individual. The second exception is a death “where the actions of a law enforcement officer have been determined to be the proximate cause of death”, a Medical Examiner may publicly discuss findings under certain circumstances. When exceptions occur the Office Manager and the Medical Examiners will deliberate as to what will be released to the media, and may seek legal counsel.

Procedure to Release Information to Media and Members of the Public

1. Individuals who request publicly releasable death certification information can call the Medical Examiner’s office, or make contact by e-mail at MedExam@spokanecounty.org. They will be provided information (as listed above), or can be directed to the “Media Release Information” tab, on the Medical Examiner’s web page, if public information is already available on the site.

2. News Media are directed to make all requests for decedent information via the Medical Examiner group e-mail account (MedExam@spokanecounty.org).

3. When a news media request is received, one of the medical investigators is to attempt to contact the family of the deceased person the media is asking about by telephone, and inform them that news media has made a request for information about their family member and that information that is publicly releasable will be posted on the Medical Examiner’s website. If the family asks which news media made the request, they are to be informed of which news agency is making the request but not the individual media person who sent the request (give the name of the newspaper, or television station, or news organization, etc. – Not the name of the individual reporter). Information may be posted on the website even if the attempt to contact family regarding the media request for information is unsuccessful.

4. As soon as feasible, and assuming the decedent has already been identified, and the next of kin have been notified of the death or 48 hours have gone by since making identification, the media request will be addressed by posting publicly available information on the "Media Release Information" tab of the Medical Examiner webpage. Postings are published by date.

5. The media release page is completed on a calendar basis, beginning January 1, and ending December 31. Beginning September 1, 2017, each year of media releases is archived, and entries from previous years will be available upon media or individual request.

Release of Autopsy Reports and Medical Examiner Information

1. Reports and records related to autopsy examination are confidential.

The groups below, according to State statute, may examine and obtain copies of autopsy reports. Ordinarily the report released is limited to the autopsy report, with toxicologic results and microscopic description included. Other items are released only at the specific request of the family, ordinarily after consultation with a Medical Examiner who may defer to the Spokane County Civil Legal Division. The investigative report while part of the post mortem record is not considered public record and is not routinely released with the autopsy report.

- The personal representative of the decedent as defined in RCW 11.02.005,
- Any family member as defined in RCW 68.50.105 (see below)
- Attending physician (including trauma surgeons) or advanced registered nurse practitioner
- Prosecuting attorney or law enforcement agencies having jurisdiction
- Public Health officials (including the Child Death Review Program)
- The secretary of the department of social and health services or his/her designee in cases being reviewed under RCW 74.13.640 (Child Protective Services (CPS) as part of a case review)
- Representatives of the Department of Labor & Industries (L&I) in cases in which L&I has an interest under RCW 68.50.103 (if L&I has requested an autopsy as part of the investigation of an industrial death – see below).

2. Spokane County charges a $20.00 copying fee per autopsy report.

3. To obtain an autopsy report a family member must formally request a copy of the autopsy report, and prove their identity as a family member by providing appropriate identification or records, and signing a release.

4. The Medical Examiner’s Office Assistants or Office Manager will record the names of all parties receiving copies of the autopsies, provide them with a copy of RCW 68.50.105, and the date that these were mailed or distributed. This form is placed in the permanent case file.

- Family members may sign appropriate releases to allow for distribution of the autopsy report outside those groups described in State law. If such a written request is made, it is retained as part of the permanent case file in the Medical Examiner's Office.
