Lifeline is the FCC's program to help make communications services more affordable for low-income consumers. Lifeline provides subscribers a discount on monthly telephone service, broadband Internet access service, or voice-broadband bundled service purchased from participating providers.

Lifeline is available to eligible low-income consumers in every state, commonwealth, territory, and on Tribal lands. The Lifeline program is administered by the Universal Service Administrative Company (USAC). USAC is responsible for data collection and maintenance, support calculation, disbursements, and assisting consumers with Lifeline eligibility and enrollment for the program. USAC's website provides additional information regarding the program, including program requirements.

How Do Clients Apply For The Lifeline Subsidy?

Federal regulations (47 CFR Part 54, sec. 54.400) allow one Lifeline subsidy per household. This means that client must choose whether they want the subsidy applied to a landline or cell phone.

Landline – The client contacts their local landline phone service provider and requests a Lifeline Application. Upon determination of this client’s eligibility, the local phone company will apply Lifeline subsidy to the client’s phone bill.

Cell phone – The client must apply with one of 9 Lifeline cell phone providers in Washington. Upon completion of a phone company’s application and determination of the client’s eligibility for Lifeline services, the client will receive a cell phone by mail.
